

Confidential bequest enquiry form

"A gift in your Will to the Garvan Institute is a special way of contributing to the medical breakthroughs of tomorrow."

Prof Chris Goodnow FAA FRS

Executive Director
Garvan Institute of Medical Research

The Garvan Institute is leading the way with breakthrough medical research. Our mission is to harness all the information encoded in our genome to understand biology and predict, prevent and treat disease.

Leaving a bequest will serve to honour your memory and be a legacy of lasting hope for future generations.

Bequests, both large and small, play a vital role in funding research projects into a range of diseases. Many of our friends, relatives or even us will be affected by a disease Garvan researches. Whether it's cancer, dementia, asthma or other immune disorders, diabetes or osteoporosis, Garvan has a history of major discoveries that have impacted human health.

Please indicate your enquiry below:

Your enquiry and details will be treated confidentially and without any obligation.

- I am thinking about including Garvan in my Will and I would like more information before I make this decision. Please send me a bequest brochure.
- I have a Will and intend to change it to mention Garvan in the revised version. Please send me the correct wording for my Will to discuss with my Solicitor.
- I have already mentioned Garvan in my Will.

Partners for the Future

Please enjoy getting to know a small selection of our Partners for the Future, and why they are supporting medical research that will benefit all mankind beyond their lifetimes by leaving a bequest in their Wills.

Ms Claire Greaves

"I think the greatest gift anyone can give is the gift of good health. When you leave a bequest in your Will to the Garvan Institute, you facilitate the gift of good health, whether it is a gift to 'somebody' or society generally."

Mr Rick Stevens

"Every time I visit Garvan, I am reminded of what an amazing place it is. What really strikes me is the age range of the scientists. It is encouraging to know that the future of medical research will be in good hands, and that I am playing a small part."

Mr & Mrs Gabriel and Joan Farago

"We asked ourselves, what could possibly be more important than supporting cutting-edge medical research which will benefit generations to come? The answer was obvious and we became Garvan bequestors."

Mr Peter Olive

"My parents and grandparents passed the baton of a better life on to me and I feel it's my duty to continue this and give back to others. That's why I have included Garvan Institute in my Will. It's reassuring to think that something I've accumulated throughout my lifetime can bring benefit to humanity as a whole."

Mr William Walker

Mr Walker is a passionate supporter of Garvan's work and recently reached an exciting milestone: his 102nd Birthday! "Statistics show that people are living longer, thanks to medical research. By remembering Garvan in my will, I feel I am making a contribution to the increasing longevity of my fellow man."

Ms Roberta Withnall

"The closeness of Garvan and The Kinghorn Cancer Centre has provided me with the opportunity to attend seminars, obtain literature, and keep up with the latest research developments. I am pleased to say that spending time at the Institute, and seeing the inspiring and important work being carried out by Garvan's gifted researchers have confirmed to me that including a bequest to Garvan in my will was a sound decision."
